Prin. E. V. Perkins gave the notices for the week and made a few valuable remarks, emphasizing the need of starting with a clean slate by doing away with all unpleasant memories and remembering all pleasant things.

S. R. Parks spoke on school athletics and the need of cooperation. He also awarded letters to Bernice Taggett and Mary Thompson, members of the girls basket ball team.

Wm. Jenkins awarded letters to the following members of the basket ball team: Capt. Mr. Jenkins also explained the value of athletics in a secondary school.

The last speaker was Joe Deasy, base ball coach, who in a very interesting manner explained the value of a college education, and urged the underclassmen to support the school athletics, after which he read the following names of the base ball players to which letters were awarded: Mgr. Manuel, Peabody, McCluskey, Ira Bagnall, Isaac Bagnall, Gillen, Dolbins, Van Tassel, Morehouse, Purdy and Waldo O'Donnell.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

The special Town meeting called for Thursday was held at the Auditorium at 9 a. m. After the reading of the call Bernard Archibald was elected Moderator.

Under the second article on motion of Dr. Mann it was voted to instruct the selectmen to purchase a lot to move the old Town Hall so called to.

Under article three on motion of F. W. Mitchell it was voted to raise the sum of $10,000, to purchase such a lot and equip the building for the use of the town and state.

First selectman Astle stated that it was the purpose of the building to use the base rent of this building when moved for the 32 horses which the state would have here, as outlined in the TIMES of last week.

HIGH SCHOOL

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

The Baccalaureate sermon given by Rev. Albert E. Luce of the Methodist Episcopal church before the class of '22 H. H. S. in the auditorium was largely attended Sunday evening, every seat in the hall being occupied while standing room was at a premium. Selections by the H. H. S. orchestra and a pleasing number by the school Glee Club, also a vocal selection by Mrs. Horace Hughes added to the pleasure of the occasion.

Seated upon the stage were the members of the Ministers Assn., Supt. of Schools T. P. Packard, Principal Perkins and Mr. F. E. Hall representing the Board of Education. Scripture reading by Rev. A. M. Thompson, prayer by Rev. F. Clarke Hartley, and benediction by Rev. H. Scott Smith were numbers on the program. The class, 65 in number, were conducted to their places by Bernice Taggett as marshal and presented a most imposing appearance.

The address by Mr. Luce was listened to with close attention. It was a splendid address full of good advice and was enjoyed by all.

HOULTON HIGH

WINS THREE GAMES

Houlton High won three ball games last week thereby adding considerable lustre to their baseball crown and getting that much nearer to the championship of Aroostook County, which now seems to be theirs without much of an argument.

Tuesday afternoon they met Island Falls at the Park. At the game played on the down country diamond the local boys got the bad end of a loosely played game by a long sided score. Consequently they were out for blood and revenge when I. F. H. S. came to Houlton and eventually secured it by a score of 8 to 7. The game started off to be a walkaway for Houlton with a good lead. However, in the fifth frame five hits accounted for as many runs and Island Falls looked dangerous but McCluskey tightened up in the pinches, and aided by the heavy stick work of his teammates, kept just one run ahead, sufficient to win.

Thursday afternoon Mars Hill came to Houlton to cross bats with the locals. The Deasyites had little trouble in walking away with a 14 to 7 contest, although in the third inning bunched hits and miscues made it look promising for the Institute lads. McCluskey pitched fine balls and also contributed four hits and a sacrifice in six trips to the rubber. Peabody got his customary homer and Zeke and Ira were on deck with the stick as usual.

Saturday afternoon was the postponed game against Presque Isle which was won by Houlton by the score of 21 to 7. The game was a walkaway and offered an excellent chance for the trying out of all the subs who have been warming the bench all season.

Mrs. Mary Stuart, who has been at the U. of M., returned home last week for the summer. Miss Jeanette, who is a student at Orono, is now at St. Andrews, N. B., where she will remain until the opening of summer school, which she will attend.

MCQUADE—CLEARY

The marriage of Miss Hazel Madeline Cleary of Caribou and Leroy A. McQuade of Houlton took place Monday, June 5th, in the Catholic church at Caribou. The couple were attended by Coleman McQuade, a brother of the groom, and Mrs. Geo. Monahan, sister of the bride. Only the immediate families were present.

Mrs. McQuade is a Caribou girl but has lived in Houlton several years and has been employed in the accounting department of the Aroostook Tel. & Tel. Co. Mr. McQuade is a popular Houlton boy and holds a fine position with Armour & Co. as traveling salesman. Both the bride and groom have many friends here and elsewhere who will wish them joy in their wedded life.

After a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cleary, the young couple left for the Eagle Lake camps where their honeymoon is being spent. They will reside in Houlton.

Miss Eleanor Wilkins who, for the past year, has been attending the Wheelock School of Kindergarten in Boston, returned home Monday to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Wilkins on High street.

Dr. William Manuel, who is studying at the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston, arrived in town Saturday morning for a week's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Manuel on Franklin street. He was accompanied by his roommate Dr. Clarke Young who will spend the vacation with him. Dr. Manuel has nine months more to study at the hospital before completing his course.

"CARNIVALS" BARRED FROM MAINE CITIES

Strenuous efforts have been made here this season by proprietors and agents of "carnivals" to obtain permits for their shows in Bangor, says the News, but all have been refused at City Hall. Mayor Day and the board of aldermen taking a firm stand against such exhibitions.

Some of the advance men were so sure of themselves that they openly stated to one of the aldermen that they could secure a license for shows in Abbott square and that the license fee of $500 a day, payable in advance, established by the board, mattered little.

Mayor Day frowns on any such shows and will do everything in his power to prevent their coming here. The mayor is in receipt of the following letter from the United States public health service, co-operating with the Maine state department of health, division of venereal disease control, which plainly shows the danger of admitting such shows:

Augusta, June 5, 1922. The so-called amusement institution usually referred to as the traveling carnival has been a definite spreader of venereal diseases. The usual personnel of such a group is of low order and the female contingent are in many instances commercial prostitutes.

These facts together with the stimulation engendered by obscene exhibitions result in a wake of venereal diseases which from an economic standpoint alone is most damaging to a community.

It is with no desire to curb legitimate amusement nor attempt to regulate the morals of a community that this communication is being forwarded to you. On the other hand, in the interests of public health it becomes our duty to inform you that the granting of a license for an amusement of this kind, called by whatever name, is taking a risk with public health.

You are advised that this department therefore strongly urges the refusal of licenses for such amusements in the state of Maine.

It is gratifying to note that several cities have already taken this step. If you are one of them we congratulate you, if not, please give the matter careful and conscientious consideration.

This will go into effect with the summer schedule.

We shall be pleased to enlighten you further if any questions regarding this matter come up. In order to co-operate we will have the local health officer notify us in advance of any exhibition to be presented in a given locality. He, in turn, will take the necessary steps to enforce the gambling and obscenity laws; in this manner overcoming any advantage which a carnival may have in getting a definite location for their show in the state.

By order of C. F. Kendall, Commissioner of Health, G. H. Combs, Director.

The action taken by Bangor is the same as that taken by other cities in the state, to keep out such shows as the above.

If any one wishes to know about how the Park privilege was abused when a carnival visited Houlton last year, they can ask E. B. Leighton, secretary of the Fair Assn., and he can tell a few things.

which will protect the growers who are now shipping under the blue tag of the state department of agriculture. At the present time there are numerous tags of various colors, shapes and sizes going out of our state which say that seed contained in this package is from certified stock. This is misleading, to say the least, and we hope to have a law passed which will clearly define the difference between stock going out under the blue tag of the department and stock going under tags which if you read them carefully do not really say anything for or against the seed in the container.

"If your fields pass the two plant inspections, plans should be made for storage independent from that of your other stock providing you have other acreage, or if you are a dealer who is continuously buying and hauling potatoes. This move is also one that is caused by the unscrupulous man who has had passed perhaps ten acres of certified stock and tried to get the inspector to put up more than one raised on that acreage.

"There is one thing that must be remembered. To ship certified seed it means that your crop must be racked harder than it probably ever has been before. When making your price to the trade make allowance for this fact because besides having a minimum percentage of disease in your plants you must ship potatoes which when sacked and opened at the other end, every potato can be used and none will reflect on the service we are trying to render. We have had some complaints this year and some stock passed us which should not have done so. But we have learned a lesson and we are going to assume that everyone needs the strictest inspection that we can give another shipping season.

"After eight years on this certified seed project the department feels that the time is now ripe for you men who are in the game to stay to make something real of this work. You can do this by co-operating with us to the end that every sack that is put up for seed stock shall be right and will be what you would like to receive if you were the man on the other end who was buying seed from Aroostook county or any other county in Maine.

"If this proves unsuccessful and we have a hard time in bringing the unscrupulous man into line, we will be obliged to drop the work because it is no use to ship even one ear a year which brings discredit to our industry.

"It is planned to visit at digging time as many of the fields and bins as possible and notify the grower at that time whether or not we think it advisable for him to attempt to rack out certified stock. If we do this, it will save the grower from making any sales and then getting disappointed at the time of his putting up stock."

PRIMITIVE LIFE IN AROOSTOOK WOODS

COMMUNITY BUILDING UNCERTAIN THIS YEAR

With the visit of Adj. General Hadley of Augusta to Houlton on Friday, the prospects of getting started on the Community building and Armory during the present season is uncertain.

It seems that there is some question as to the legality of having a Community building for the town and Armory for the state troops combined and the Adjutant General said that he would be obliged to await the decision of the Attorney General as well as members of the Armory commission, which has a number of lawyers as members, before going ahead with the proposition for Houlton.

In the case of Lewiston which is similar, the city voted $150,000 for such a building and the state will give $50,000 the same as Houlton has done, but this is for an armory and conditions are not the same as was found in Houlton, so that unless a decision is reached soon it would be impractical to commence work on a building of this size so late in the season.

CROP STATISTICIAN TO MEET FARMERS

The Government Crop Report has been a constant topic of conversation for several months. Numerous have been the conjectures and criticisms as to the figures that were given relative to the potato crop for 1921. A revision was made in midwinter, based on the 1919 census report. How many men who read this article have wondered why this revision?

V. A. Sanders, Crop Statistician for New England, is to be in Aroostook County the week of June 19. It is his desire to meet a large group of dealers and growers to answer criticisms and questions, also to present several other important matters pertinent to the potato market.

The local committee of Aroostook County Farm Bureau has arranged meetings for Monday, June 19, 1922 to be held at Grange hall, Houlton, 1.30 p. m.; Monday, June 19, 1922 to be held at Grange hall, Sherman Mills, 7.30 p. m.; Wednesday, June 21, 1922 to be held at K. of P. hall, Mars Hill, 7.30 p. m.

Mrs. Louis Dalton left last week for Jonquiere, Quebec, where she will spend the summer at sporting camps with her brother, H. D. O'Brien, who is Supt. of Pheasant Fish and Game Club in that city.

Walter Berry, who is a member of the graduating class of Colby college, arrived in town Saturday morning for a few days stay before returning for the commencement exercises. He was accompanied by John W. Brush, a graduate of Colby who is now attending the Newton Theological Seminary at Newton, Mass.

Messrs. Elwood Burr, D. A. Staples, C. D. Holden, Arthur Bailey, H. G. Bailey of Fredericton, N. B. were in town to spend Sunday. The four latter gentlemen compose the "Devon Quartette" who have furnished on the several visits of the Houlton howlers to the "celestial" city, the musical programs at the smokers given the Houlton boys.

VOSE—EVITT

The wedding of Miss Ann Margaret Evitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Evitt of Roland Park, Baltimore, to Ensign Frederic Blen Vose, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred N. Vose of this town, took place on Saturday, June third, at seven o'clock at Brown Memorial church, Baltimore, Md.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chiffon and tulle and carried a bouquet of white roses and carried a shower bouquet of valley lilies and brides roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. Fred E. Ohrenschild, wore blue chiffon embroidered in gold and carried yellow roses. The maid of honor, Miss Anna Lyde Adams of Virginia wore yellow chiffon and the two bridesmaids, the Misses Ruby and Louise Vose, sisters of the groom, wore gold chiffon, and the other bridesmaids, Miss Mary Kidder and Miss Edna Strouse, wore blue chiffon and all carried roses.

The groom was attended by Ensign Maelyn Floyd of Val., and the ushers were Lieutenant Edmund Kidder, U. S. N., of Houlton, Maine, Ensign Harry Ingram, Philadelphia; Hugh Goodwin, New Orleans; Leverett Hull Nicols, New Hampshire; Ralph Burleigh, Houlton. All the ushers and the groom and best men wore uniforms, and after the ceremony was completed the groomsmen made an arch of swords through which the bride and groom passed.

There was a small reception for the bridal party and the two families, immediately after the ceremony, and the bride and groom left for a short trip. After the first of July they will reside in Norfolk where Ensign Vose is stationed on the U. S. S. Nevada.

Man and Wife from Brockton Enter Woods Wearing Only Their Birthday Clothes

Taken by legal force from their improvised "Garden of Eden" the self styled "Adam and Eve," in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sutter of Brockton, Mass., who were living the primitive life in the Aroostook wilds three miles east of Prides Mill station on the Ashland Branch of the B. & A. R. R., arrived in Houlton Thursday in the custody of game wardens Howard Wood and F. E. Jorgenson for a hearing before the Houlton Municipal Court charged with violating the state game laws.

Sutter and his wife went into the woods near Prides Mill three weeks ago to remain for a period of six weeks without clothing, food or weapons, to live the life of the primitive man and woman.

Commissioner of Inland Fisheries and Game Willis E. Parsons instructed his wardens to apprehend the couple and they were brought to Houlton for a hearing. In the Houlton Municipal Court Friday they each pleaded guilty to the five counts as charged and were given the minimum fine on each count as follows:

Camping and building fires on wild lands without registered guide $40, for killing deer in closed season and having part of same in possession $50, for fishing without a license $10, for hunting without license $25, for killing partridge in closed season $10, total $135; this with costs of $84.15 made a grand total of $219.15 which was the sentence imposed by Judge Archibald which was paid.

The couple caused considerable notice around town as their stunt has been broadcasted by a syndicate of newspapers, a Boston Advertiser reporter and photographer having accompanied them to the wilds of Aroostook and were in daily communication with them, the stories of their endeavors to wrest a living from the woods being relayed to the Boston papers.

Both Mr. Woods and Jorgenson stated to a TIMES representative that they considered the couple absolutely on the square and had none of the game laws been violated the stunt would have been completed as scheduled.

To live in the woods of Maine during fly and mosquito time is some stunt to say the least, but to go in unprotected by clothes is a stunt almost without parallel, and the condition of the couple when apprehended by the officers was pitiful and the sudden transformation to the comforts of civilization for even a short time must have been a welcome respite.

Saturday the party left for their return to Howe Brook where Mr. Sutter will again enter the woods, this time alone to complete his self imposed stunt, and this time armed with the proper authority from the game and fish warden in the shape of a hunting and fishing license which will enable him to sustain himself legally while in the woods. Mrs. Sutter will remain at Howe Brook during the time her husband is completing his time in the woods.

Game warden Wood gave Mr. Sutter permission to occupy the bough and bark camp which he built, without which permission he would again be liable under the law as a non-resident, and instructed him as to how he should construct a fireplace.

Before the court Mr. Sutter made a statement which he felt might justify his violation of the game laws, but the judge could not agree with him.

However, the excitement is over, the laws have been justified, Mr. Sutter and the newspapers have put the stunt over. Great is the power of the press and the story will go to every corner of the earth—"and that's that."

Mrs. Annie Martin has returned from Portland where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Buzzell.

Miss Avory Munro of the freshman class at the University of Maine is at home for the summer holidays. She is entertaining as her guest Miss Hilda Bangs of Augusta.

HOULTON GRANGE

Grange met last Saturday at 10.30 a. m. and after the usual routine of business and balloting on new members, eight candidates were instructed in the first and second degrees of the order, after which a picnic dinner was served by the committee in charge.

At 2 o'clock p. m. all assembled in the hall and memorial services were held in memory of the deceased brothers and sisters. Floral offerings were placed upon the altar and appropriate readings were read by the master Albert G. Merritt, brother Harry Crawford and sister Annie E. Bither. Beautiful selections were sung by Mrs. White and Mrs. Hussey, also a vocal solo by Mrs. Wendell Hand. Prayer was offered by Rev. Albert E. Luce.

FAIRNESS IN NEWS REPORTING

"Remember there are two sides to every question. Get them both. Be truthful. Get the facts. Mistakes are inevitable, but strive for accuracy. I would rather have one story exactly right than one hundred wrong. Be decent, be fair, be generous."

This was the sort of advice Warren G. Harding used to give to his newspaper workers when he was getting out a paper in Marion. Now to be fair and be truthful one should at least comprehend both sides of the question. The readers of the press should be wise enough to insist upon this. They would be requesting no more than what they pay for when they buy the paper. The evidence that the average reader, if he possesses the wisdom, doesn't act upon it, may be found in the huge sales of the sensation sheets which find the filth of China-town more to their liking than the self-sacrificing, courageous and often brilliant achievements to which no community would be a stranger if it considered what is really going on. Does it consider it? Would it be interested so to do? These are not pleasant questions. If the community doesn't care for those things which really make life worth living, only for those misfortunes and inequities which sometimes make it seem unbearable, manifestly it needs something very essential to its continued welfare.

When President Harding the other day urged upon newspaper men their obligation not to exaggerate the evil men do on the one hand nor overlook the good they do on the other, he mildly performed a duty which he is especially fitted to perform. It should have been expected there would be an occasional yelp about his desire to muzzle the press, but always some dogs will be silly enough to bay the moon.

The press owes it to the public to report law-breaking; to pay due attention to the criminal. This publicity is a strong deterrent. But unfair criticism reacts and in the end arouses sympathy for the lawbreaker. A few years ago certain publications grew rich overnight exposing conditions, some of which at least merited it. This work became known as muck-raking and was carried to such extremes that it lost whatever influence for good it might have possessed.

It has been said the desire for details of criminality is because they are exceptional, whereas the deeds of the law-observing are common-place. There is a measure of truth in this but not all, by any means. A normal appetite delights in clean, wholesome food; a depraved appetite craves appetizers, condiments and often results in indigestion and general unfitness.

President Harding isn't asking the press to suppress any of the facts respecting the approaching trials of the war grafters. Those facts should be emblazoned so that even those who run may read. But in fairness those who suffered from serving should not be forgotten. Thousands risked their lives for the cause. Some of them paid the full price. Many are broken and suffering. Not one of these should be forgotten. Any fact pertaining to them should be "news" and the public should see to it that it gives its support to the press which recognizes it, which keeps the sense of proportion, which sees in the day's events much to inspire love of one's kind as well as horror. It is all news, and it all happens; every day in the year, there are good deeds as well as bad deeds.

THE BIG LESSON

One of the great tasks before the human is to learn the lesson of living together. When the great war broke out people stood about in a helpless way and told each other that it could not be true. While the horror mounted to greater and yet greater proportions, and something of the full measure of the thing came home to us, we heard it said, "Religion is a failure!" "Education is a failure!" "Civilization is a failure!" Religion, education, civilization have not failed; they have not yet finished the process of teaching us how to live together without grinding each other to bits.

Has not every one experienced the shock of having a train whirled by the car window going in the opposite direction? If these two bodies came into collision under such momentum, death and destruction would follow in horrifying extent. Except for the momentary thrill, the trains pass on their way and the incident is forgotten.

We humans are not railway trains to be run through life upon laid tracks but the incident does suggest that in this world where we are trying to live together there is room enough for each of us to have full expression without colliding with some else. Of all the waste in the world, the waste of human life is the greatest and the least excusable. Not waste of life alone, but waste of all those human forces that go to make up the resources of the world, mind and heart and hope.

When we have learned, better than we now know, how to live together we shall have some appreciation of this unspeakable waste that comes in the grinding process under which we now live.

Civilization is not a finished thing. It is not a discovery which promises to be a cure-all for the ills of humanity. It is a process, an accumulation.

It is the best way that we know. A better is yet to be. Civilization, like humanity itself, is yet in the making. We learned things in the world war. Perhaps one of the most valuable in the long run is the shocking fact that we have come on, as yet, only a little way toward the desired goal. We learn things in the peace that has followed, in the conferences and congresses that have been called. This one plain fact that stands out is this: We have not yet learned how to live together! Yet we must learn.

After all it is a personal matter. The world is a big place. It is full of people, it seems to run by a process far beyond our control; but still it is made up of individuals, and we are much alike the world over. One man can't lift the world, but one man can do what is fair and just by his fellows near at hand. Sometimes I wonder if that is not real point to the whole matter after all the man disposition to do his part. One nation is hostile to another, one class complains against another class, whatever we may mean by class, and one man feels that he is put at a disadvantage by the other fellow, but growing don't seem to help. It is a slow march to be sure, but all the progress that has been made so far, has been made by one step at a time, and one man took each one of these steps.

THE YESBUTTERS

Do you know what a "yesbutter" is, and are there some of them in your acquaintance? You should recognize them, as there are a considerable number in the state.

The man who starts out to accomplish any good result for his home community soon finds out what a "yesbutter" is. He is perhaps trying to induce people to serve on some committee, or help run some business organization, or take hold of some public improvement. He argues that everyone should take hold and do his share of the community work. If everyone goes on the principle of "Let George do it," public work will not get done, and the advance of the town will be obstructed.

"Yes, but I have no time I can give to public work," it takes all my time to attend to my business," says Mr. Yesbutter, and the first two words of his reply offer the key-note to his character as a citizen.

Or suppose you say that the city needs a new school building, or a new playground, or whatever may be called for to enable the town to maintain its standing and offer its citizens the advantages they should enjoy in a town of this class.

"Yes, but we already have a good sized debt and we ought to pay off some of that before putting in any new improvements," says Mr. Yesbutter, again revealing his conception of civic life.

Whatever community proposition you put to him will always be met in the same spirit. He will assent to your general principle, but there will be "buts" and "ifs" that make it impossible for him to cooperate, and he will feel they make it impossible for the town to do the thing essential for its advance. No community was ever built up by yesbutter, and the most progressive movements had to advance over their noisy opposition.

WHY READ NEWSPAPERS

The editor has plenty of excellent reasons why people should read his paper, maybe. But it is interesting to find someone else giving their point of view on the subject.

It so happens that a New Hampshire man, Charles E. Adams, writing in the Journal of Education, expresses his advice particularly to women and high school pupils. He points out the woman's duty to be well informed, especially since she has become a voter. To this end he recommends a systematic and careful perusal of the daily newspapers and magazines," giving a certain portion of each day to this purpose. Here's the way to go at it for best results, according to Adams:

"Glance at the heading in big type on the different pages first, and select those that seem most important or most likely to be talked about. After reading a few selections, but not all at once, turn to the editorial page and thoroughly and with much deliberation read the editorials found there, together with the contributions from the public on current events.

"On this page is the crystallized thought of men who are experts in explaining matters of public interest and there is no one source of information, so rich and so varied, by which one can keep in touch with what is going on, that can compare with the editorials of a first class newspaper or magazine. Quite frequently facts just read, under one of the main headings and not well understood, become clear under the magic touch of the editor's quill.

"After digesting the editorial page return to the main headings still unread. The object of turning to the editorial page before reading all the news is to make of its contributions, which may be cream for that day.

"Frequently, when some great event is transpiring which may extend over a period of several days or weeks like the Conference for the Limitation of Armaments, it is wise to give such a subject the first place in one's reading."

There are other suggestions for the woman that she attend monthly Current Events club sessions; and then the writer addresses himself to the public school, urging the introduction of the daily newspapers in the school-room not only for its direct educational value but also because it establishes the habit of keeping well posted on public affairs.

THE WORLD PEACE—AND OIL

Back of Russian political questions and world peace lies oil, the necessary basis for transportation on land and sea, for industrial needs and for naval use, for all the civilized nations.

What terms Russia will make with outside capital for the exploitation of her rich oil fields is not yet determined. Russia intends to collect her oil taxes or royalties not by paper rubles but by percentage of production and it reports from experts are reliable Russia wants half the spoils.

Russia, according to C. W. Barron of the New Bureau staff, who is now in Paris and has been at Genoa, we believe, has divided the oil district into seven areas and proposed to prevent wastage by offset border drilling by substituting therefore government refractions as to oil well locations. The Soviet government would like to have seven big oil concerns to bring capital and technical skill for the development of these districts, but there are not seven big oil concerns with world distribution facilities. The shell company is the largest distributor in Europe. The Soviets talk of 60 per cent. of production as the contribution at the start from what outside capital and enterprise may produce, they do not make any offers of protection against local taxation on the 40 per cent. which they are willing to allot as the reward of capital.

It is therefore clear that under any circumstances the Russia in Soviets mean to have at least one-half of the Russian production.

Russian oil possibilities, moreover, relate to the future rather than to the immediate years ahead.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

BACK TO THE FARM

IN SOUTH AFRICA

It is the duty of every government official and every kind-hearted non-official in the rural areas to do their utmost to check this soul and body destroying exodus from the field to the slum. For most of the poor whites there may ultimately be a chance on the land. In the towns there is none. By habit and experience and tradition they are totally unfitted for city life, whilst its dangers overcome them with peculiar ease. In the main the problem of poverty on the land must be solved on the land. A wholesale sweeping into the cities can only make it larger and more complicated, and infinitely more difficult. If the well-to-do people of the dorps have any good feeling at all towards their poorer neighbors they will do their utmost to prevent them drifting into a city which simply means as a rule into a slum. The towns have claimed too many victims from the field already. Johannesburg Times.

JOURNALISM AND LITERATURE

The production of literature is not the object of newspaper journalism. The primary purpose of a newspaper is to present the news and to comment upon the news. Incidentally it gives its readers much writing on many subjects not necessarily related to the news. But in reporting the news, in the discussion of it, and in the miscellaneous contributions to the newspaper, there may be, and often is, good writing, and good writing, wherever found, is literature. There are many definitions of literature.

Electric Cooking Triumphs

Endorsed by Country's Greatest Cooking Experts

Electric cooking has won the approval of the nation's cooking authorities. Women have long known that electric cooking is cleaner, that it makes the kitchen cooler, the air purer, that it is more convenient. Now they have the word of the greatest cooking experts that it produces better results than any other means. Read what these women say:

For success in baking, one needs an even and dependable temperature, and this is secured more surely by electric heat than by any other medium.

Janet McKenzie Hill,
Editor, American Cookery.

I have no doubt that electric cooking will greatly supersede the old method, by virtue of its evenness, dependability, economy, simplicity, safety, comfort and reliability.

Margaret Nell,
Editor, Home Journal.

Good Housekeeping Institute Approves Electric Cooking

Good Housekeeping Institute heartily endorses electric cooking. Electricity in the kitchen is convenient, safe, economical, and it produces better results than any other method. For the reason that it is so clean, so safe, so economical, and so convenient, it is the best method of cooking that has yet been discovered.

Woman's Great Kitchen Convenience

is a Hughes Electric Range. The uniformity of the heat enables a woman to cook with wonderful exactness. Every part of the burner has the same amount of heat; every corner of the oven the same temperature. Food cooked in the even is better tasting; the rich flavors are not carried off by air currents, nor the food tainted by fumes. Bread and cake rise evenly, brown uniformly. The heavily insulated heat retaining oven walls conserve not only food, the saving in meat shrinkage is fully 25%—but also heat. Constant watching is unnecessary. If one time can be spent out of the kitchen, find out more. And this range, the pioneer in electric cooking, approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, is a genuine home help, and given the world's highest rating, the Pan-American Gold Medal.

B. & A. TO SPEND $700,000 ON IMPROVEMENTS THIS YEAR

Expenditure of nearly $700,000 will be made on general maintenance by the Bangor & Aroostook railroad this year, according to the annual budget, which has been approved by the board of directors and its provisions announced Wednesday. The general maintenance program as contemplated for the year comprises innumerable repairs and changes and a number of marked improvements to the lines and other properties.

Included in the big work are a number of improvements at Derby, where many of the company's 65 dwelling houses are to be extensively repaired, a private telephone system is to be installed, a new heating plant put into the Piscataquis Hotel, while much new machinery will be set up in the Derby shops and a lot of general repair work will be done upon the shops and other buildings there.

At Presque Isle the freight shed will be considerably enlarged by the addition of an extension measuring 108 and a half feet in length. The engine house at Caribou will be rebuilt, probably of cement-concrete, and a new and larger turn-table will be installed. At Squa Pan a new engine house, a new station and a new coaling plant will be constructed. Extensive repairs will also be made on the pilings of Wharves Two and Three at Cape Jellison.

A great deal of culvert work is also contemplated, it being planned to replace 142 wooden culverts with either the cast iron or concrete type. The trestle between Perham and Stockholm on the Washburn extension is to be replaced, the space being filled in with the use of a concrete culvert.

A contract for ballasting 65 miles of road has been awarded to the Eyre-Johnson Co. of Philadelphia and other track work will include the relaying of 24 miles of rails using a 8" and 85 pound iron, while 200,000 new ties will be laid together with 8,000 "tie plates" (used at the rail joints) and 14,000 rail anchors, which are to keep the rails from "creeping." At the sidings at Boyd Lake, Webster, St. Croix, Phadr, Jemmland and Martins the rails are to be replaced with heavier steel, a 70 pound rail to be used.

Painting will be done on 17 sets of station buildings and 15 steel bridges, including the large international bridge between Van Buren and St. Leonards, N. B. The sum of $10,000 will be expended on the repair of wire fences. Many new loading platforms are to be built at various places on the several divisions of the road, along with a multitude of other general repairs.

The budget provides for the purchase of two Russell snow plows, these acquisitions to the company's rolling stock having been made with delivery during the latter part of the winter.

HAYS ORDERS CLEAN FILMS

An ultimatum to the moving picture industry to clean up the films and keep them clean has been formulated by Will H. Hays and the moving picture producers and distributors who are members of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. The association includes the majority of the big producers and distributors, and represents between 70 and 80 per cent. of all moving pictures made in this country.

The ultimatum from Mr. Hays and the producers has been posted on the bulletin boards of all studios in New York and Los Angeles, calling on all directors, actors and other workers in the industry to assist in the elimination of objectionable features. In each company Mr. Hays's letter as mentor of the movies is to be accompanied by a letter from the head of the company. Some of these letters intimate that any employee who fails to live up to the spirit and letter of the dictum of Mr. Hays will be dismissed immediately.

Hays Supported

After a close study of the moving picture industry since he took office as president of the new association March 5, Mr. Hays decided about three weeks ago that he should take some definite stand that would guarantee clean films to the public and eliminate some of the criticisms of the industry. At a meeting of the directors of the association, called for May 17, Mr. Hays's proposal for a warning to all members was approved by unanimous vote.

It was intimated that this ultimatum is the last word to a few directors whose pictures have been questionable in some respects, and that failure to comply with the letter of the new rule will mean dismissal from the industry.

"We accept full responsibility for the future," said one of the officials of the association, "but, of course, we cannot be responsible for films made before this time or even in the early days of the life of this association. But we declare ourselves for clean films from now on."

The officials said that this action meant not only the setting up of a strict censorship in each producing company, but in the office of Mr. Hays as well, and that every picture would be filtered through this internal censorship as far as possible before being sent to distributors.

Those who attended the meeting May 17 and approved Mr. Hays's suggestion for a warning to all employees were Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation; William Fox, president of the Fox Film Corporation; Frank J. Galsbol of the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation; Earl W. Hammons of the Educational Film Exchanges, Inc.; Carl Laemmle of the Universal Film Exchanges; Marcus Loew of the Metro Pictures Corporation; John M. Quinn of Vitagraph, Inc.; and Lewis J. Selznick of the Select Pictures Corporation. It was approved also by others who were not at the directors' meeting.

In his letter Mr. Hays pointed out that one of the objects of the association was the advancement of the industry "by establishing and maintaining the highest possible moral and artistic standards in motion picture production," and that this aim could be achieved by immediate application of the ideal to the making of pictures.

"Every day there is opportunity in the studios to take that action which will more and more eliminate the objectionable features and nearer reach the highest possible moral and artistic standard."

Some of the letters of the producers to their staffs were sharp, but only one was given out for publication. This was the letter of Mr. Laemmle to his organizations, in which he gave the following warning:

"Since, as Mr. Hays says, the whole industry will be judged by the pictures now being made and hereafter to be made, the Universal does not purpose to make any picture, or any scene in any picture, which can in any way bring condemnation on the Universal or upon the picture business."

PACIFIC ISLETS DISCOVERED AND REDISCOVERED

The reported discovery by an American pleasure craft of hitherto unknown islands in the Pacific near Kingman's Shoal, south of Hawaii, has been followed by a statement from the Hydrographic Office of the United States Navy that the reported find probably is a rediscovery of Washington and Palmyra islands, situated near the latitude and longitude given. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society briefly describes the islands mentioned:

"There would be nothing new in the rediscovery of Pacific islands," says the bulletin. "Many of them have never been inhabited or were abandoned years ago, and to all appearances are virgin islands. A number of small islands have been reported as new finds over and over again, and in several cases double and treble names testify to this circumstance. The most recently reported discovery is in a region fairly well frequented by ships since it is within 200 miles of the mid-Pacific station of the Canada-Australia cable on Fanning Island and is even closer to the steamer lane between Honolulu and American Samoa."

Only 6 Feet Above Sea

"Palmyra Island, which lies about 50 miles south of Kingman's Reef, was discovered 120 years ago by the American ship 'Palmyra.' In 1912 the United States took formal possession of the island and made it a part of the Territory of Hawaii. It is of 100 per cent. good, and I herewith serve friendly notice upon each and every Universal employee, from the highest to the lowest, that I shall not be satisfied with anything less than 100 per cent. of cooperation along this line."

coral, 5 1/2 miles long by 1 1/2 wide and its highest point is only 6 feet above the sea, making it a precarious place of residence in case a tidal wave should strike it. There are no inhabitants.

"Washington Island, about 100 miles southeast of Palmyra and only 75 miles from the Fanning Island cable station, was discovered in 1798. It is 3 1/2 by 1 1/2 miles and its 'highlands' top those of Palmyra by four feet. The soil is rich and the island is covered by a luxuriant growth of coconut trees. Something over 100 people live on the island."

"Kingman's Reef itself has on its rim two tiny islands that have appeared on large-scale charts of the central Pacific for many years."

DEFICIENT VITALITY A GREAT MISFORTUNE

Persons that can rarely or never say that they feel full of life, are really among the most unfortunate. They do not live, but merely exist; for to live implies more than to be. To live is to be well and strong, to arise feeling equal to the ordinary duties of the day, and to possess the over-coming power to feel life bounding in the veins.

A medicine that has made thousands of people, men and women, well and strong, has accomplished a great work, bestowing the richest blessings. Such a medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. The weak, run-down, or debilitated, from any cause, should not fail to take it. It builds up the whole system, changes existence into life, and makes life more abundant. It is simple justice to say these words in its favor.

Hood's Pills very effectively supplement it in cases where a cathartic or laxative is needed.

are saving-bank depositors. And what is more, almost all these deposits are in the same bank.

The function of depository of popular savings in Belgium is not, as in the United States, shared by numerous savings banks or the savings departments of established financial institutions, but is mainly concentrated in the Caisse Generale d'Epargne et de Retraite, at Brussels. The Caisse d'Epargne is a private company with legally regulated functions, and operates under the supervision of the Minister of Finance. It cooperates with the Belgian postal service, thus obviating any need of a postal-savings system. According to its last report, this institution had 3,500,008 accounts, indicating that practically one-half of the inhabitants of Belgium are depositors. Total deposits at the close of 1921 were 1,494,522,172 francs, showing an average credit to each depositor of 427 francs.

BUILT BETTER than Cars that Cost More-

A CAREFUL analysis of the construction and complete equipment of the Light-Six will convince you that it has no duplicate in value in the light car class.

For instance, the machining of the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces is a manufacturing practice that is found only on costlier cars.

This particular operation is mainly responsible for the fine balance of the Light-Six motor and its remarkable freedom from vibration at all speeds. It also has an important bearing on the wearing quality of the car and on its long-lived dependable service.

The exceptional values in the Light-Six are possible because practically every part that goes into the car is manufactured complete in the most modern plant in the world. Parts-makers' profits are practically eliminated. Important savings through better methods and bigger volume permit greater value to the buyer.

From the standpoint of shrewd investment you should find out why the Light-Six offers you so much more for your money in performance, service and economy.

GOING IT TOO HARD?

Overwork, worry, overeating and lack of exercise and sleep are responsible for much kidney trouble. If your back aches and the kidneys seem weak, rest up and use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Thaddeus Willette, 22 Smyrna St., Houlton, says: "I have always done hard work and now and then take a heavy lift and I blame that for putting my kidneys out of order. At times I was in pretty bad shape with this disorder. My back was painful and the pains extended around through my sides. The kidney secretions were highly colored and contained sediment. Whenever I notice any of these symptoms I go to French & Son's Drug Store and get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. It doesn't take them long to fix me up. I am glad to say I haven't been bothered with my kidneys of late."

WHY OLD RAILROAD TIES ARE BURNED

Why should worn-out crossties be burned by railroads instead of allowing people to take them for fuel? This question has been answered by Samuel Porcher, general purchasing agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

"He states that efforts have been made to interest dealers in firewood in buying the old ties, but thus far without much success. The causes appear to be that the old ties are often dirty; that they contain stone, grit and slag wedged in the cracks which might injure the saws used in cutting them; that in many cases they are partly decayed; that they are dried out and that their fiber is more or less crushed, so that they burn out quickly. For these reasons dealers have been unwilling to pay the railroad company enough to cover the cost of collecting the ties and delivering them to a point at which they could be removed. Efforts have also been made to dispose of old ties in such ways as for wood pulp purposes, for extraction of chemicals, for burning and sale of the ashes for fertilizer, and for manufacture into charcoal, but without success. Some ties have been sold to purchasers living on or near the right of way who buy them at nominal prices, usually at from 10 to 15 cents apiece. Such means of disposal is practicable only where the ties can be delivered at a public crossing or other points so that they can be obtained safely by the user and where the cost of delivering them is no greater than the nominal prices obtainable. The company feels that it can not allow the public to go promiscuously over its track and through the yards to gather up old ties, as this would be practically letting down the bars against trespassing on the tracks, an evil against which the Pennsylvania Railroad has struggled for years and which has been the cause of about half of the fatal accidents on railroads in the United States."

HAVE YOU LARGE CREDIT AT THE BANK OF HEALTH?

What is your credit standing at the bank of health? asks Dr. Louis R. Weizmiller, physical director of the West Side Y. M. C. A., New York city. If you were to present a check to be cashed would the teller advise you there was no surplus of resources on which you could draw? If this should be his disappointing message, it would probably come as a shock and a surprise, because you consider yourself in fairly good physical condition.

The financial banker gives a depositor a statement each month showing the credit balance. The depositor takes pride in keeping as large a margin in his favor as possible. If the monthly statement indicates a substantial gain in wealth he is happy. And he is much less apt to suffer the jolt that accompanies the announcement that he has overdrawn his account.

Sickness is a notice from the health banker that there has been an overdraft on physical resources. Such an unwelcome story would probably never be told the indisposed person if he was in the habit of checking up occasionally on his physical condition. Of course, it is not necessary to do this every month, but once a year at least, every person can benefit by going to his family physician for a thorough physical examination.

The mental relief which comes from knowing that all is well is worth a good deal. Perhaps the examination indicates certain tendencies which if not checked might lead to serious trouble. Or perhaps it will show some disease in an early stage of development which can be cured by prompt action.

The family that operates its finances by the budget plan or the merchant doing business by modern method takes an inventory of stock once a year as a check up on material resources. But physical resources are of even greater value than any amount of gold or silver. A physical examination is an inventory of one's physical resources. Just as the inventory of a business concern indicates what should be the program for the next year, so a physical examination will show what plans should be followed to secure the maximum of good health.

Depreciation of material matter is the only known perpetual motion. A man making out his income tax is always willing to charge up the depreciation in his home. But, if he is wise, he will not allow time to elapse before he considers the necessary upkeep and repairs to keep his home attractive and comfortable. The human body is material matter that is constantly depreciating. In making out the returns to Father Time a person should take depreciation into consideration and have a health program which will keep the physical being in an attractive, comfortable and healthful state. He must be honest in his returns or the penalties will be sure and severe.

The body is a highly organized mechanism. Natural wear and tear are apt to produce some loose bearings. Then there are the destructive processes produced by infections that have some effect on all people.

Our strenuous ancestors provided us with a large balance of safety as to the matter of old tissues. They gave us two lungs where it is possible to get along with one, two eyes, two ears, two kidneys and two hands. The man of today is a survivor of the best since the earth was first honored with life. There is no excuse, with such a wealth of supply, for a normal individual not to round out a good three-score and ten years in this world.

But because we have a mass of health wealth handed down by our ancestors, we are often like a man who has suddenly inherited an immense fortune who spends recklessly because of lack of knowledge in handling large sums. A creak in the machinery, a headache, indigestion, fatigue finally warn him of the danger of his spendthrift habits.

In examining 130,000 men in the last 30 years, I have found many who looked and felt fairly well who nevertheless had complicated diseases. Just the other day I examined a prominent business man. He frequently consulted a lawyer concerning legal matters, but he had never consulted a physician. I found he had chronic Bright's disease with a blood pressure of 245. This man had always judged himself by himself, that is out of his own experience which had been one of good health for years. He did not know how to be sick. If he had not accidentally taken a physical examination, he would have died in a very short time, and he may die soon in spite of treatment.

There is no argument of any weight against having an examination every once in a while. There are many sound reasons for doing so. It is a good deal like many people's attitude toward making a will—a good thing to do, tomorrow. But like making a will, it is important thing to do today.

JUST TALKS

On "Some Suggestions of Thrift"

We whittled shavings by the camp fire the other evening, in the woods, something dry with which to start the fire in the morning; for the mornings were cool.

I doubt if there is an old-time New Englander living, wherever he may be, if it were a neighborhood of thrift, who does not recall seeing the man of the house sitting by the stove in the kitchen, after dark, whittling shavings for the morning fire. He would rummage the wood-box for a cedar shingle; for a piece of dry seasoned pine; for a bit of birch-bark and with these for a basis, he would draw out the jack-knife and have a good time; curling the long, fragrant wood into shavings or taking a stout stick fitted for the stove and whittling it into a sort of charcoal de frizzling of bristling shavings still attached to the stick. These little lighting-rods stuck out all over the little and invited the flame as the lightning rod was supposed to invite the fluid.

Grandfather had all this to do every night. He made it a sort of evening sacrament. He seemed pleased when the wood seemed to be difficult. It was more of a job. He had another economy of note, the making of cedar "spills" for pipe-lighters. This was a steady job. A cedar post sawn into nine-inch lengths, dried in the shop under cover until it fairly shone with its tawny color. The sections split into sizes sufficiently small to be handled with the jack-knife. And then an evening by the fire in the coo, of the day, splitting these pieces into long and slender "spills" about the size of a lead-pencil or smaller. They would turn out as straight and even as though machined. They had a fragrance of fine old cedar and lavender. They suggested linen for the bride. A hundred of them stuck in a blue pitcher without a handle, its front turned around so that it somewhat resembled a delt vase, stood on the mantel, where one had to stand to reach it those old-fashioned very high mantels over kitchen stoves, up where there could be no danger of over-heating from the stove and where a boy could not reach, except by standing on the wood-box behind the stove and then only on tip-toe and with much stretching and perhaps the aid of the family bible, surreptitiously used.

The ritual for grandfather and grandmother who used to sit by the fire and smoke their pipes together, was for Rebekah to arise and take down the blue delt pitcher and select a cedar spill; open the draft in the front of the stove; poke in the cedar spill; withdraw it quickly by a deft motion that required practice or else the draft would draw out the flame in the spill, and with it light his pipe. Then he would pass it to Philona. She wore gold beads and had her hair curled in dear little rolls by means of side-combs just above her ears. She had the face of a saint. I could not laugh today even did I see a Madonna smoking a T. D. Grandmother lit her pipe and prudently put out the cedar spill. It could be used again, if not burned too short.

So far on the back tracks. Now to turn around a bit and look ahead. Are we so far relieved of necessity that we can waste as we do now? You once saw in every home a lot of paper spills for lamp-lighters. We children used to roll them out of the "Weekly Journal". They saved matches. And if one could be used twice, so much the better. Now we burn forests every day lighting cigarettes and cigars and pipes. Was it necessary in those days to have about a million ledgers, loose-leaf journals; day-books, et cetera as now? If so, nobody did. We have millions of stenographers where once we did our own correspondence. Letters! Letters! A bushel of them here this morning mostly about nothing at all. Efforts to get publicity, chiefly for nothing; when they should pay for it at cost of paper and type. My friend across the way says: "And clothing. Once we patched our trousers' seat." Yeses! But I never enjoyed wearing them. I'll say that. I have gone about looking like the stern of one of those old-fashioned Spanish sailing ships with windows behind. Thrift, carried so far that mother did not mind if one patch be blue and the other gray—tears and tears for the gray that sort of thrift did not appeal; but then we got away with it.

But such waste! Such everlasting waste as we are indulging in now—days is a subject of deep concern; especially when so many people are hungry and sorrowful. Would a dollar a month mean anything, saved. Nothing more than twelve hundred

Agriculture and the Railroads

The Joint Commission (of the Senate and House of Representatives) of Agricultural Inquiry, has been studying "The Railroad Problem as Related to Agriculture" since last summer. The collecting and assembling of the data in the report about to be issued by this Congressional Committee has engaged the labors of more than 1600 persons and 250,000 inquiries have been sent out. The report is one of the most complete ever prepared by a Congressional Committee, and has been reviewed by another committee representing the government Departments of Finance, Agriculture and Commerce, and the Chairman of the Committee (Congressman Anderson) has authorized a statement from which the following quotations are made:

"It is of paramount importance to the public welfare that the transportation companies be made going concerns; that they be placed upon a substantial foundation in every respect."

Railroads Should Earn Their Tax

"The railroad companies must be operated with the expectation that the gross revenues will be sufficient to cover operating expenses and leave a reasonable return upon the investment."

"It will not do to make up deficits by appropriations of public funds."

"Figures in the report will show a progressive deterioration since 1916, which was the most favorable year in railroad history from the standpoint of net revenues."

"In 1920 the gross operating revenue of the Railroads shows an increase of 124.5 per cent over 1911, the total operating expense an increase of 206.4 per cent, net operating revenue a decrease of 5.92 per cent, while the net operating income shows a decrease of 97 per cent."

Deering Mowers

A Strong Light-Running Machine

Deering mowers have a world-wide reputation for light draft. This is because of the light but strong construction of the machine and the fact that ball and roller bearings are used where there is any great amount of friction. These features mean that the horses can do a longer day's work.

Three Types of Mowers

Deering mowers are made in three types: regular lift, vertical lift, and giant or heavy type. The table below shows the various sizes in which each type is manufactured. The regular lift mower is so called because the cutter bar can be raised to sufficient height for passing over ordinary obstacles in the field. It is the common type of mower used on most farms.

Vertical lift mowers are used where the cutting is extremely rough or where there are a large number of trees, stones or stumps. This is because the bar can be lifted to nearly a vertical position and the mower can pass close to an obstacle.

Giant mowers are so called because they cut wide swaths and have extra heavy construction. The frame is wider, the wheels are higher, and have a wider face. The tread is 2 inches wider than the regular 2 horse mower. In other respects they are the same as the regular lift mower.

Made in the Following Sizes:

One-Horse regular lift, 3 1/2-foot
Two-Horse regular lift, 4 1/2 and 5-foot
One-Horse vertical lift, 3 1/2-foot
Two-Horse vertical lift, 4 1/2 and 5-foot
Two-Horse Giant, 4 1/2, 5, 6 and 7-foot
